Core Values Activity

By www.flstartingpoint.com; hello@startingpoints.com

Materials/Prep: None

These are simple and fast challenges that don't require any props. They are great if you're put on the spot and need to provide an activity without any advance prep time - but also provide opportunities to discuss communication and teamwork.

Instructions to the team:

Without speaking, line up by height.

Discussion:

Watch for what happens when two kids can't decide which of them is taller - how do they express their disagreement? Do other team members help resolve it?

Now, still without speaking, line up in alphabetical order.

Discussion: Watch whether the team uses first or last names to create the order - how did they make sure everyone was using either first names or last names?

Now, still without speaking, line up by birthday.

Discussion: This is the trickiest one. Some kids will try to form a line by age - who has the earliest and latest birthdays overall. Others will try to form a line by birthday month, putting someone born in January 2005 ahead of someone born in February 2004. How does the team become aware of this variance? How do they handle it?

Overall Discussion:

How did the team solve each variation?

Was there one leader?

How did they communicate without speaking?

What didn't work well?
